Death Claims Mrs. Hazel McGovern of Orland Park

Mrs. Hazel McGovern, aged 33 years, died Saturday evening at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Schussler in Orland Park following a lingering illness.

She was born in Orland Park in 1894 and lived there all her life. In 1920 she was united in marriage with Jack McGovern. To this union one son was born.

Several years ago she was assistant cashier at the Orland State Bank.

She was ill for a number of years, and although she went to Wisconsin and out west for her health, the fatal illness could not be stayed and she passed away peacefully last Saturday.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the late home to the Orland Park M. E. Church, Rev. Elmer L. Setterlund, officiating. The great concourse of people which filled the edifice far beyond capacity testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by her community. The choir of the M. E. church sang a number of selections. Burial was in Orland Park cemetery.

The floral tributes were very profuse and beautiful, among them being offerings from Rev. Wm. Gorey of the St. Michael's church, Orland Park, Burnside Hospital, Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce, Orland State Bank.

The deceased is survived by her son, her parents Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Schussler, one brother Walter and a host of other relatives and friends.

Three Slayers to To Hang July 15

The three remaining notorious Klein murderers now in the county jail at Joliet must hang July 15th according to a decision of the Supreme Court which upheld the verdict of the Will County circuit Court. Originally 6 were to have been hung, but 2 escaped jail and one was killed while attempting to escape. These murderers have been about the toughest bunch of criminals ever housed in the Will County Jail from which two partly successful attempts to escape were made in March and a week ago Monday.

BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

The first baseball tournament of the year will be held at Manhattan Sunday, June 26. Teams competing are Elwood, Manteno and Manhattan. James O'Neil will do the umpiring. First game at 12:30 sharp. These teams are all well balanced clubs, consisting mostly of college stars. Games to be played on Will County's finest diamond.

An admission fee will be charged. Auto parking free.

Correction

Thru a typographical error in the insurance adv. of W. C. Hollstein of Tinley Park now running in the classified column of the News-Bulletin, the rate was given as $2.00 per $1000 insurance on a five year period when it should have read $2.00 per $100. This error called forth many inquiries to Mr. Hollstein who is in no wise to blame for this error which has been corrected in this issue. This error shows how much difference an added 0 does make in a case like this.

Speeder Fined $100 at Tinley

Tinley Park is much provoked at speed crazed autoists who are trying to use its concrete road for a speedway. As a result of this condition Mayor Wm. Funk has stated that the village council is going to appoint a speed cop after July 1st to enforce its law against speeding.

Last week one speeder was made an example of. He collided with several cars in his mad flight and was promptly arrested and arraigned before Police Magistrate F. A. Harper on charges of speeding and driving a car while drunk. He was fined $100 and costs, on Sunday another speeder tore thru town at a 60 mile clip, chase was given and his license number secured. Speeders had better beware of Tinley Park as this town means business.

Worth News Notes

The Emmanuel Choral Society of last Intercommunity service of the season, Sunday evening June 26, 8 p. m. at the church. Rev. Setterlund of Orland Park will deliver the address of the evening. Rev. Schack of the Emmanuel Evangelical Lutheran church, whom many have heard over the radio will also take part in the service. The choral society composed of over thirty singers will sing three selections, two in English and one in German.

This will be a rare treat for the people of our southwest suburban towns. It will be the first time a service of this kind has ever been attempted. No one can afford to miss it. The people of the communities of Orland Park, Palos Park, Worth, Chicago Ridge and Oak Lawn are cordially invited to attend.

There will be a social time after the service in honor of the Choral society.

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL A SUCCESS

The Daily vacation bible school is now progressing in its second week and is proving a great success. Mrs. Hanks who is in charge is very well satisfied with the work of the children. Miss Preller and Miss Gladys Crandall are doing very fine work with the smaller children and they all seem to like the school. Rev. Sanders who has charge of the recreation and hand work of the boys. The boys have been building a model of a log fort which they have named Fort Worth.

The bible school demonstration will be held Friday evening June 24, at 8 p. m. in the church. Every one is invited and urged to attend.

Come and back your children, see what they are doing.

INFANT WELFARE CLINIC JUNE 28.

The next meeting of the Infant Welfare Clinic will be Tuesday afternoon June 28. All of the mothers of the southwest towns are invited.

This is your opportunity to help your babies and small children, give them a chance by bringing them for medical examination by an expert doctor.

SURPRISE ON MRS. COMERFORD
The Ladies Bunco club gave a surprise party on Mrs. Comerford who is leaving for the summer. A good crowd was there and a good time was had by all.

PLAYGROUND NEEDED FOR THE CHILDREN

It has long been felt that a play ground is needed for the smaller children of Worth so as to give them a place to play to get them off the street and out of danger. Rev. Sanders realizing this started the people thinking of this last year.

The ladies of the community raised about $38.00 with which to buy equipment. This was so late in the season that it was thought better to wait until this year to carry it thru. The time has come to get busy on it. The children of the city and even country communities are privileged to have a play ground why not the children of Worth?

There is a fine place for the play ground back of the church. A swing, slide and sand box is needed to start with. More equipment can be added as more money is provided. Let's remember that we were all children once, let's do something constructive for our children. Super vision of the play ground has been arranged for.

Miss Marie Sanders is visiting her brother Rev. Sanders. She plans to be in Worth for a week or two.

WORTH GIRLS HONORED

Miss Hazel Stromberg, Ruth Mitchell and Lillian Kaufman appeared in a public recital in the Fine Arts Building in Chicago last week. They appeared before a very select audience of artists and music critics of Chicago. They were very well received and were highly complimented on their singing. They appeared as soloists with a number of trained singers but were received even better than the professional singers.

It is predicted by some of the critics that the Worth girls would some day win their way into Grand Opera or professional work as soloists.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP CLUB IS

WOLF ROAD

Senators and Representatives:-

Satisfy your constituents and pass House Bill No. 422 now in the House Appropriations Committee for the construction of a hard road on Wolf Road from Route 51 on Wolf Road connecting the Lincoln and the Southwest Highways, a distance of about six miles, thereby adding another link to the pavement on Wolf Road and when the pavement on Wolf Road is completed as proposed from Kankakee to Wheeling and beyond we will have the Great North and South Trunk Line through no congested areas, the connecting highway of all east and west highways from the Lincoln Highway to Dundee Road in Northern Cook County—

CHICAGO'S OUTER BELT HIGHWAY— THE GREATEST HIGHWAY IN AMERICA

Preserve the traditions of this historic highway and DO NOT MISS THE OPPORTUNITY TO SATISFY YOUR CONSTITUENTS as you will need their support in the next election.

Route 51 May Go West of Frankfort

The construction of Route 51 from Wilton Center to Justice has struck a big snag inasmuch as the original routing thru Frankfort may have to be abandoned on account of the residents thru whose property the highway would pass, refusing to give a right of way at the figures the right-of-way committee would

HELPING THE COMMUNITY

The Good Fellowship Club is fast proving itself a great benefit to the community of Worth. It is from its meetings that most of the plans for public improvement come. It always is behind every thing that stands for the public good and it does not jump into a situation without investigating. In this way it is helping to remedy many of the mistakes that have been made in the past in our village.

The Child Welfare committee composed of Mr. L. MacCauley, Dan Crandall and O. H. Lysen are now busy preparing a baseball diamond for the boys to play on. This has long been needed but no attention has been paid to this need until the Good Fellowship Club got active on it.

The model home being built by a association formed from the club, is now under way. The well has been dug by Mr. MacCauley and Mr. Wm Little has dug the basement. Mr. Bohn of Worth has the contract for the erection of the house. Mr. A. Crandall is in charge of the whole thing. Mr. Preller and Mr. Bishop are also directors actively in charge.

BOYS BEING SOLD BOOZE

It has come to the attention of the community that some of the small boys of the community have been sold liquor by one of the supposedly soft drink parlors of the community. Many of the people felt that this was carrying the thing entirely too far and have decided that an investigation should be made by the mayor and village board. The old saying "Give a man enough rope and he will hang himself" is certainly true in this case. When they start on the children and small boys it is almost time to investigate.

ministration's stand on the gas tax, the legislature should now pass the bill introduced by this Association thru Rep. John M. Jenco.

Leaving the big gap on Wolf Road, is now known as "A state blunder." With Wolf Road being taken over as a state aid road in Cook County and being in line for paving to the county line, it would mean that Mokena has been deliberately left in the mud for 6 miles. This territory deserves a concrete road and must have it.

In Cook County, things are beginning to hum in favor of Wolf Road. It is understood that new maps and plans are being prepared and that Southwest Highway is to come down to the Will and Cook County line over Wolf Road, and this highway is to be built 40 feet wide. Present culverts and bridges have been ordered widened to 40 feet. A 100 foot right of way has been secured from the county line to Orland.

Major Quinlan, supt. of highways of Cook County has been quoted as saying that Cook County will not do anything about the proposed spur off the Southwest Highway to Joliet until Will County shows what action it will take on the county bond issue. According to plans on file the Southwest highway is to go south down Wolf Road to connect with the Lincoln highway south of Mokena and another branch is to go over Maple Street road to Joliet. The routing of the Southwest Highway over Wolf Road seems almost an assured fact now.

Two Mokena Teachers Re-hired

The Mokena school board has announced that they have re-engaged two teachers from last year's faculty, namely Miss Hall and Mrs. Ferguson. The high school department is to be maintained the same as last year it is announced. Three more teachers are to be engaged for the coming year. Many applications have been received for these positions.

Issues Year Book

Nearly 42,000 new customers were acquired by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois during the past year, increasing the company's total to 359,672, according to the 1927 Public Service Year Book, now being distributed to investors in the company's securities and other interested persons.

The book contains 30 pages on which appear numerous photographs of the company's properties, concise descriptions of expansion projects, interconnection developments and building programs completed during 1926.

A map of the 6000 square miles of Northern Illinois territory served by this company, together with a list of its 2866 customer-communities is a feature of the publication.

It is understood that this routing has been dropped and a new survey is being made west of the village which would bring route 51 thru the Folkers property so that the highway would come out at a point east of the Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Property owners of farm lands in Orland township thru which the highway would pass are also refusing to grant a right-of-way. From present indications it will take the rest of the summer before the new survey is completed, and the right-of-way obtained so that the route will not be completed before winter even the construction work should be started on the project.

Full information concerning officers, executive organization and financial status is included.

The cover of the book is attractively colored and of a checkerboard design, each square containing a figure representative of the company or some of its activities.

The Mokena Men's Club will stage a special big 4th of July dance on the evening of Monday July 4th. A big time assured for all. Come!

Gas Tax May Build Wolf Road

Soon as the news came that the much fought gas tax had been passed at Springfield Monday night, the Mokena Development Association at once got busy and sent telegrams to Gov. Small, Senator Barr, Rep. Jenco, Henneberry and O'Neil and to Otis Arnold, chairman of the legislative Road and Bridge committee, and Thos. Curran, chairman of the Appropriation committee, urging them to pass House Bill 422, which asks for an appropriation of $200,000 with which to construct 6 miles of concrete on Wolf Road from Route 51 to connect with the Southwest Highway at the Cook-Will County line north of Mokena.

The Mokena Association went on record as favoring the gas tax at the highway department's road hearing in Chicago on March 17th, and also on May 20th, they passed a resolution endorsing a gas tax in some form. So far as known this is the only organization in the state that went on record in favor of the gas tax.

The Mokena Association also got out folders urging the senators and representatives to pass Bill 422. The Mokena Association feels that as they have endorsed the state ad-

New Lenox Couple Married 50 Years; Celebrate Event

More than 100 relatives and friends gathered at the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman Francis last Tuesday evening at the old home on Elmrow farm, one of many that mark the extensive holdings of this prominent Will county family.

And so it seemed most of the hundred guests were relatives or at least connections of the Francis clan. And a genial, joyful, happy and prosperous clan they were, none seeming happier and more genial than the hospitable pair who joined hands June 21, 1877, and who received every guest with as much joy as might have been evident 50 years ago.

Beautiful hot house flowers sent by admiring friends and relatives filled the large house with perfume, and one room was set apart for the gifts for the golden wedding.

Receive Many Gifts

And golden they were in every sense, symbolic of the pure and unalloyed regard of the givers in the pure metal that figured largely in the gifts. There were more cunning devices to make gold pieces of unquestioned value and several substantial checks seem unobtrusive and modest, than could be imagined.

A golden clock was one of the beautiful gifts and many other golden offerings some of pure silver lined with gold, some of china in burnished gold.

One of the very interesting features was the presence of numerous guests who had been present at the ceremony 50 years ago.

To Celebrate The 4th of July

The Marley Brotherhood will stage a big 4th of July celebration on Monday afternoon July 4th at Storm's Grove, Marley. A regular program has been arranged. John Everett, baritone radio singer of Chicago, Master Everett Maina "Yankee Doodle" in uniform, Miss Grace Frost, of Chicago, a noted whistler are among the headliners on the program. There will be games, men's, boys and ladies foot races, also a ball game between Mokena and New Lenox. Come early and stay late and enjoy a good time.

At Orland Park a picnic and patriotic outing will be held at the For est Preserve adjacent to St. Michael's church on 143rd street. An old fashioned chicken dinner will be served at the assembly hall. There races, games, tug of war. Palos vs. Orland Park. A patriotic address, music, dancing, refreshments are on the program. Everybody welcome.

The Frankfort Industrial club will sponsor a big 4th of July celebration at Borman Grove. There will be games, races etc. in the afternoon. There will be free dancing during the afternoon up to 7 p. m. Music will be furnished by R. V. Meeks orchestra. Everybody welcome.

The Mokena Men's Club will stage a special big 4th of July dance on the evening of Monday July 4th. A big time assured for all. Come!

WINSOME DELICACIES

To dine regally and well, try some of these dishes occasionally:

Ham With Mushrooms.—Fry a half-inch slice of ham for about ten minutes over a slow fire. Turn the ham and cover the cooked side with a dozen shrimps which have been boiled and cleaned and one-half dozen mushrooms cut into thin slices. As soon as the second side of the ham is cooked (about seven minutes) take it out and place on a warm dish in the oven. Cook the shrimps and the mushrooms about two minutes in the hot fat, then turn them onto the ham and surround the whole with cooked fresh peas.

Coddled Steak.—Take about two pounds of round steak cut an inch thick, season well with salt and pepper and flour. Have ready one small onion chopped fine, two tablespoonfuls of butter or beef drippings heated very hot. Put the meat into a hot pan to brown evenly on both sides, then add enough water to cover well. Season with salt and pepper and Worcestershire sauce to taste. Cover tightly and simmer steadily until the steak is tender. The meat must be basted and turned frequently. Serve on a hot platter with some of the gravy. Garnish with parsley or water cress.

Iron Mountain Muffins.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, one third of a cupful of butter, two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one egg well beaten, three-fourths of a cupful of milk and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter and sugar. Add the well-beaten yolk, the flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder, then add the milk and the egg white beaten stiff. Bake in a quick oven. This makes one dozen muffins.

Salmon Souffle.—Take one can of salmon, remove the skin and bones and flake, add the yolks of two eggs, one cupful of rich milk or cream, then seasoning desired and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake 20 minutes in a well-buttered pan set in hot water. Serve at once when nicely puffed.

Something to Eat.

It is the everyday food which we are most interested in, as that is a daily problem. For the occasions when we entertain are countless good things which are limited only by the purse.

Those who enjoy the palatable eggplant may like to try this method of cooking and serving it:

Eggplant Pot Pourri.—Boil an eggplant, without peeling, for 20 minutes, or until nearly done. Drain, cut into half lengthwise and scoop out the centers and chop fine. Simmer one-third of a cupful of chopped green pepper and one cupful of chopped onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter about 12 minutes. Add one cupful of chopped fresh tomatoes and the egg plant. Season well and cook for ten minutes, add one egg yolk well beaten, stir and cook until thick. Fill the eggplant shells, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and brown under the broiler flame. This dish is rich in vitamins A, B and C, and can be eaten by one wishing to reduce or to maintain weight. It is also a good laxative because of the vegetable fiber.

New Carrots.—Wash and scrape carrots and cut into finger-sized pieces. Put on to cook in a thick aluminum dish tightly covered with no water. Add butter, a tablespoonful or two, seasoning of salt and pepper and cook for an hour. Serve as a garnish for mutton stew. This dish is rich in iron and vitamins.

Lemon Sauce.—Cook together one tablespoonful of cornstarch well mixed with one cupful of sugar, then add two cupfuls of boiling water. Cook slowly ten minutes, then add the grated rind and juice of a lemon; lastly one tablespoonful of butter.

Pineapple Salad With Honey Dressing.—Arrange slices of fresh pineapple on lettuce and pour over the following: Beat together three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two tablespoonfuls of honey, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a dash of salt and cayenne. Serve at once.

Bermuda Salad.—Cut into fine cubes a small southern onion, add twice the quantity of tart apple also cubed, season well with salt and add a little minced green pepper. Mix well with salad dressing and serve on lettuce.

Stuffed Dates Salad.—Stuff dates with nuts and cover with finely cubed apple on a nest of lettuce. Serve with a mayonnaise dressing.

Coconut, Apple and Onion Salad.—Prepare two cupfuls of cubed apple, add a tablespoonful or two of finely chopped onion and a tablespoonful of finely minced fresh red pepper, mix with a cupful of grated, fresh coconut and add enough dressing of any kind to moisten. Serve on lettuce.

PRINT SILK ENSEMBLES FOR BEACH; MATCHING CAPES AND CHIC TOUCH

"A PLACE for everything and everything in its place"—and that place, according to Dame Fashion is the sandy beach with its background of sky and sea, when it comes to a perfect setting for apparel which is startlingly bizarre, spectacular and boldly colorful. Wherefore stylists have taken their cue, playing up to their limit the charm of vivid printed silks, cretonnes, satins and figured crepes, as mediums for beach and swimming costumes.

There is an interesting diversity to bathing and beach suits this season, so much so, they give the aspect of a style pageant staged to display every gette or brocade. What's more, the smartness of the beach square, as is also true of the evening square shawl, depends largely upon the manner of wearing it. It requires a cunning knack to wrap it around "just so," but the result is worth practicing before the mirror to attain.

The new wee-patterned silks, which are so gayly highlighting the fabric mode, seem to call for quaint and cunning fashioning. And they get it. One cannot imagine a styling better tuned to these naive silks than this illustration sets forth. It is one of fashion's latest.

Cleverness and modishness under-phase of the costume mode. In this gay panorama, one has the satisfaction of seeing humble gingham, yet not so humble according to the latest verdict of the mode, hobnobbing with satin and silk, with never an appearance of cheapening the scene. Indeed the gingham bathing suit has been taken up with alacrity by the elite. The quaintness and youthfulness of a checked gingham bathing suit is proving of widespread appeal.

Beach beauties are destined to promenade in marvelous ensembles this summer, featuring printed silks of every description. A charming beach costume is shown in the picture, which goes to show to what extremes the mode is trending both as to color and design.

Two outstanding items in beach at-writes this little frock, as viewed from every phase of the style question. The diagonal movement of the plaited ruffles, arranged as they are in tiers, is very new. The use of grosgrain ribbon for binding the edges of the cape bespeaks an outstanding trimming tendency.

Of course the first thing one notices about this arresting frock is its cape of self material. Capes to match the summer-silk frock are one of the foremost features of the later modes.

Capas also distinguish many of the handsome silk coats which are at this moment so favorably accepted by women of fashion. Often a coat of black faille silk will have a cape attachment finely plaited. Then, too, a frock of good style carries a plaited skirt with a short plaited cape-wrap tire are the square wrap of gay patterned fabric, also the tunic of vivid print topping black saten pajamas. These short slips which look like an abbreviated day-time frock are also worn over black satin trunks.

The "square wrap" above referred to is simply a large square developed of rubberized gay print banded with a plain material. It is fashioned exactly as are the lovely evening shawls made of metal cloth and georto match. Such an ensemble developed in black or navy blue is very distinctive.

Speaking of capes, they are entering the costume mode from every angle, for evening as well as daytime. Just now it is the pleasure of the mode to add to the dainty pastel chiffon frock a cape of the same material. These transparent capes are indeed charming, especially worn with the sleeveless gown.

Newest French fashions include long capes of allover lace. Of black chantilly the wrap serves with every evening frock. However often the lace cape is in matched coloring to the sheer frock. Leading shades for the lace cape include gray, beige and soft modulated green.

Man Using Both Hands

Can Accomplish More

Out of every hundred babies born, 17 are naturally right-handed, 3 are left-handed, and the remaining 80 are capable of using either hand with equal ease. Yet, owing to our method of training the young, by the time those hundred babies are three years old all except the three who were left-handed will use the right hand for such essential work as writing, painting and the use of all tools.

There are said to be over 400 different sorts of work in which the equal use of both hands is an advantage, but even in those in which one hand only is generally used it is a tremendous advantage to be able to use the left hand in order to rest the right.

Sir James Barrie, when his right hand failed him, had to learn to write with his left, but Sir Robert Baden-Powell, when bitten by a dog and forced to carry his right arm in a sling, went right on with his work, writing and drawing with the other hand, for he has been able to use both hands equally all his life.

The great animal artist, Landseer, could paint two pictures at the same time, using both hands. The famous Leonardo da Vinci was equally accomplished, and so was Holbein, the portrait painter. More wonderful seems the fact that the well-known surgeon, Mr. Simeon Shell, could operate equally easily with either hand. Sir Oliver Lodge is another well-known man who uses both hands with ease.

It is the left side of the brain that controls the muscles of the right side of the body, so by learning to use the left hand a person actually rests one side of his brain and is therefore able to do more work at a stretch.

Beautiful Church Tower

Many of the parish churches of England and Wales are beautiful, but the tower of the church at Wrexham, Wales, with its corner turrets high as medieval fortresses, its spirals and crockets, intricate bands and graceful cornices, is a thing of astonishing beauty and worthy to have graced a minster. As a noted traveler once said: "One cannot look at it without acknowledging a debt of deep gratitude to those who built it so many centuries ago."

ANSWERED:

three vital questions you have asked about used car allowances

1 "What is my present car worth?"

Answer: Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; that is what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

2 "Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances that differ materially?"

Answer: Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

3 "Is it true that the largest allowance offered means the best deal for me?"

Answer: The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not. An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car. Remember that after all you are making a purchase, not a sale.

Millions of others are starting, too! Be ready for them!

MAKE NO MISTAKE! There's only one way to exterminate bedbugs. That's with a liquid. Don't waste time shooting a spray at them. No spray can possibly reach their young and eggs.

Bedbugs are in the woodwork, along the base-boards—not in the bed clothes, as you may have thought. Don't waste time using a powder. Bedbugs don't eat. They suck. That's why only a liquid can exterminate them.

Peterman's Discovery is the right liquid. It soaks down into their nests. It will exterminate all bedbugs, all their young and eggs in any house in 48 hours.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY, Liquid—exterminates bedbugs.

FLYOSAN, Liquid Spray—kills flies and mosquitoes.

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD—exterminates cockroaches.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD—exterminates ants.

PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD—protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

I sought for a word with Marjory as we entered the door, but Murray deliberately strode between us. All I gained was a glance from her eyes that bade me be strong and confident.

Ta-wan-ne-ars sat with his back to a wall, his eyes fixed on vacancy, his lips murmuring at intervals Ga-ha-no's name. I tried to interest him in what went on without success. He looked at me, and turned his eyes away.

We slept little that night, for we were very cold and we had no food. But in the morning the Keepers thrust a pan of corn mush within the door and we ate it to the last kernel. I forced a portion upon Ta-wan-ne-ars, feeding him with a stick we found on the floor.

After that we slept for several hours, and then a lantern gleamed on the stairs and Murray stepped into our midst, an immaculate periwig on his head, his linen spotless, his brown cloth suit as fresh as if direct from the tailor's hands.

He set the lantern on the dirt floor and stood beside it.

"A good morning to you, Master Ormerod," he began. "I have come to hold counsel with you. Look you, my friend, we each of us have that which the other wants. In such a case sensible men come to terms."

"I would not turn you now on any terms," I said flatly.

"Tut, tut, sir. Is that language for one gentleman to employ to another?"

"You are not a gentleman, sir; you are—"

He glowered.

"Have a care, sir," he warned.

"You are a scoundrel," I finished.

"Look you, Master Ormerod, I have you fast here. I have also the chief, your friend. I have in addition one you love."

"Before you proceed further," I interrupted, "I wish you to answer me one question: Whose child is she?"

He hesitated, and regarded me sideways.

"Oh, well," he said after a moment, "it might as well out now as later. The maid is the child of my sister."

"And her name?"

"She is a Kerr of Fernieside," he answered pompously. "I should add, sir, that I have been at particular pains with the girl, having an especial affection for her."

"Yes, we are free, Marjory. Will you come with me?"

She caught my meaning, and made to pull away from me.

"But we will have had no wooing," she exclaimed, half between laughter and tears. "Sure, sir, you will not be expecting a maid to yield without suit?"

I would not let her go.

"Every minute that hath passed since I stepped into the main cabin of the New Venture to see the face of the mysterious songbird hath been a persistent suit," I declared.

"The warriors of the Long House came pouring through the gates of the stockade, and their war-whoops echoed over the forest as they commenced the work of looting Murray's establishment and securing their prisoners. As Marjory and I passed out of that sinister enclosure, which had seen so much of wickedness and human suffering, we had our last joint glimpse of Andrew Murray."

"Farewell, my children," he called. "Bear in mind 'twas Andrew Murray brought you together. So good cometh out of evil."

Marjory shrank closer against my side.

"Yes," she said; "take me away from here. Let us go away, Harry—and forget."

But 'twas Corlaer, and not I, who escorted my lady to Albany and the tender care of Mistress Schuyler, into whose charge Governor Burnet most kindly commended her.

For duty commanded me to discharge by obligation of removing Murray and his Cahn-nag-as—not many survived the castigation of the Iroquois—in safety to Jagara; and I must accompany Do-ne-ho-ga-weh and Ta-wan-ne-ars and the warriors of the Eight Clans in the triumphal procession which traversed the Long House from the Upper Mohawk castle to the shores of the Thunder Waters as an illustration of the wrath of the Great League.

And I was not sorry that I did so, for it enabled me to sit beside Do-ne-ho-ga-weh and his brother chiefs in the half-finished stone fort at Jagara and hear him lay down the law of the Long House to Joncaire, as representative of the French.

"Qua, O Joncaire, mouthpiece of Onontio who rules at Quebec," he said. "We people of the Long House come to you in peace. And we give into your hands the white man Murray and those who are still alive of the Keepers of the Doom Trail. We promised that they should come here, and we have fulfilled our promise. But we have set a bar across the Doom Trail, O mouthpiece of Onontio, and we desire you to tell the French of that."

"It is our wish that you should acquaint Onontio with our decision. We ask him to assist us in wiping out this source of trouble between us."

"I have heard your message, O roy-an-ehs and chiefs of the Long House," replied Joncaire. "I will repeat it to Onontio, but I do not think it will be welcome in his ears."

CHAPTER XVIII

From Pearl Street to Hudson's River

The sun bathed the dust of Pearl street wherever it could steal between the layers of the thick-leaved boughs overhead. I lounged on the doorstep of our cozy, red-brick house by the corner of Garden street, and reread the letter from Master Juggins which the supercargo of the Bristol packet had delivered a half-hour earlier.

My heart is rejoiced, dear Lad, at ye Excellent report of you which is come from Governor Burnet. Murray's discomfiture hath had Exceeding Advantageous effects in ye City and ye Marchants who Earley did Clamor for ye freedom of Trade with ye French are now Perceiving how ye Plans of Governor Burnet did Settle to their Profit in ye Longe Runne. Use your Own Judgmente, I praye you, in developing ye Provincial Trade and draw Upon mee at will for what Funds you Maye need.

Granite and I do send you our Love and Respect and She bides me say she Considers 'Twas ye Act of Godde I was sette Upon in ye Mincing Lane what time you Came to my Rescue. We desire that you and Mistress Marjory may Deem ye house in Holbourne your home and 'twould delight our Eyes might we See you Here. Butte of that you will bee ye Judges. Ye New World is ye world for Youth, of that There can be no Dispute.

I recalled the damp, wintry day in Paris I had made up my mind to quit the Jacobite cause and try my fortune at all risks in England; the pang with which I had abandoned the last link remaining with my dead parents; the rough trip in the smuggler's lugger; the wet landing at night on the dreary channel coast; the fruitless attempts to enlist the aid of former friends; the hue and cry upstart cousins had raised; the flight to London; the—

"Ha, there, Ormerod!"

I looked up to see the burly figure of Governor Burnet rounding the corner. He waved a handful of papers at me.

"The packet hath brought great news," he cried. "The lords of trade have seen the light, — 'em! Do but hark to this!"

Wouldn't Be Bluffed by "Reserve" Officer

During the early part of the World war there was considerable hard feeling between some of the regular navy men at the submarine base and those of the naval reserves at San Pedro. Many of the salty recruits of the regulars had—and showed—a feeling of superiority over the reserves, whose camp adjoined the base.

One morning a salty recruit who had about two weeks' service in the regular navy was doing sentry duty at the submarine base gate when the commanding officer of the reserve camp passed by. The sentry failed to salute him. The commander was a retired regular navy officer and a stickler for naval etiquette.

"Why did you not salute me?" asked the commander.

Memorials

They have set up in the market place the ymages of notable men, and of such as have been great and bountiful benefactors to the commonwealth, for perpetual memorie of their good actes, and also that the glory and renowne of the ancestors may styrre and provoke their posterity to virtue.—More, Utopia.

"I did salute you when you passed about an hour ago, sir," answered the recruit sentry, who had read somewhere in the naval regulations that he was supposed to salute an officer the first time he met him, but had not read on to where on sentry duty he was to salute an officer whenever he passed.

"You are supposed to salute me every time I pass," thundered the reserve commander.

"Who do you think you are, and how do you get that way? You're only a reserve," answered the sentry. —The Periscope.

Moses Called an Inventor

Tens Juergens, a German engineer, has written a book in which he produces biblical references to prove his assertion that Moses was a "powder, nitroglycerin and dynamite merchant."

He maintains that Moses held back the Egyptians by laying land mines, which he exploded by well-timed fuses. The writer says the tabernacle was a well-equipped laboratory.

We give advice but we cannot give the wisdom to profit by it.—La Rouchefoucauld.

The "Boys' State Fair School," according to S. J. Stanard, director of agriculture, "is the most valuable means for dissemination of agricultural education that it is possible to present within the time limits of the fair. It is unfortunate that enrollment in this school must be limited to 322, when thousands of ambitious youths could benefit so much by attending these instructive sessions. The rules governing entrance requirements and the apportionment of representation between counties are just as fair as can be," the director commented.

In accordance with the announcement of the 1927 session, Cook county is entitled to 15 representatives. Fifteen counties, with population ranging from 60,000 to 100,000, may each send five students. Ten counties with between 40,000 and 60,000 inhabitants, send four, and the other counties of the state may send two each.

In each county the superintendent of schools, the president of the farmers' institute and the president of the board of supervisors or a county commissioner form a board to pass upon the qualifications of applicants. For their guidance a set of test questions is provided by the commission charged with the work of conducting the school.

County superintendents of schools, selected by congressional districts, who are to serve as assistant superintendents of the school, have been announced by the commission that conducts this educational feature of Illinois' annual agricultural exposition.

A. E. Gilpin, Centralia, A. W. Nolan, Urbana, and J. E. Hill, Springfield, have been appointed assistant principals of the school. The principal in charge is W. S. Booth, Springfield, assistant superintendent of public instruction.

The commission that conducts it is headed by Hon. Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction. H. W. Mumford, dean of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois; E. C. Pruitt, superintendent of schools of Sangamon county; W. G. Curtis, Stockton, president of the Illinois Farmers' institute, and W. W. Lindley, general manager of the fair, form the members of the board. Military officers in charge of the camp are to be appointed by Adj. Gen. Carlos E. Black, and for the instruction, the best talent available at the University of Illinois is provided.

In the latest health report issued by Dr. I. D. Rawlings, director of the state department of public health, a total of 87 cases of diphtheria is shown for the state. The progress that is being made in checking this disease is indicated in the Illinois Health News, an informative bulletin issued by the department. It is there stated that "a total of 45 counties out of the 102 in the state reported no deaths at all from diphtheria last year. There were 17 cities of 10,000 or more people that escaped without losing a single person to that treacherous disease."

Representative T. J. Sullivan's bill providing that in cities of less than 75,000 population under commission form of government, the board of local improvement shall consist of the mayor and two commissioners, passed the house. The measure was called for passage by Representative Michael Igoe, Chicago, in the absence of Representative Sullivan, who is ill at St. John's hospital. Mr. Sullivan's health is improving rapidly.

Justice Floyd E. Thompson of the Illinois Supreme court, who was recently a delegate to the national convention of the order of Sons of the American Revolution held at Richmond Va., in an address before a meeting of the local chapter outlined the history of the flag from June 14, 1777, to its one hundred fiftieth birthday anniversary.

Senator William Sneed's old age pension bill, which has the support of organized labor, mustered two votes short of a constitutional majority in the senate, and further consideration was postponed on motion of Senator Sneed. It may be given another call. The measure was defeated in the house.

Representative Thomas Fekete's bill, placing mutual benefit associations under the control of the state department of trade and commerce, has been passed by the senate. The measure now goes to Governor Small.

Senator Barr's bill, giving county boards authority to fix the time for opening polls in the rural districts, passed the senate. Under its provisions the hours may be from six to four or from seven to five.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watson, Mt. Vernon, are the parents of a daughter, born Wednesday, June 8, according to announcement received in Springfield. Mrs. Watson, before her marriage, was Miss Dorothy Emmerson, daughter of Secretary of State and Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson.

Senator Adolph Marks, Chicago, introduced a bill providing that persons registering for elections with election commissions shall declare their party affiliation at the time of registering instead of at the election.

"Let us select the best there is in quality as well as quantity of egg production." This was the comment offered by Stillman J. Stanard, director of agriculture, when it was suggested that an egg show be added to the classes in the poultry department of the Illinois State fair, August 20 to 27. The premium list, now undergoing revision, will contain a division for eggs, and the exhibition will be on display in the poultry pavilion.

The section of the premium list that will offer prizes for eggs divides the show into four classes. Adults and juniors may compete for honors, both in brown and white egg classes. Seven moneys are offered: $10, $7.50, $5, $4, $3, $2 and $1. The sweepstakes prizes in brown and white eggs, $10 in each, is open to adults or junior poultry breeders. The funds set aside for this show total $150.

The qualification requirements, and the standards of excellence by which the exhibits will be judged, will appear in the state fair premium list from which prospective exhibitors may gain information that will serve as a guide in selecting their entries.

The senate passed Senator John Dailley's bill, amending the criminal code so as to change the penalties in a number of instances. Anyone convicted of assisting a prisoner to escape from the penitentiary shall receive the same penalty as the prisoner he aids, except where that penalty is death, in which case the penalty for such assistance shall be life imprisonment. The penalty for manslaughter is changed from a sentence of from one year to life to from one to four years. An argument advanced in favor of the measure was that under its provisions it would be easier to secure conviction, as juries frequently vote to release suspected criminals because of the heavy minimum sentences.

Representative Frank McCarthy's bill, placing grain warehouses under the control of the Illinois Commerce commission, has passed the senate, and goes back to the house for concurrence in amendments. This measure is the outcome of the committee investigation of the Chicago board of trade. The Kessinger bill, which would place the board of trade under control of the department of agriculture, and which passed the senate some time ago, has failed to advance beyond the order of second reading in the house.

Senator Starr's bill, limiting the working hours of women to 48 a week, has arrived at the order of third reading in the house, with only one change made, that to exclude public and private hospitals from the bill's provisions. Representative Lotie Holman O'Neill has championed the measure during its progress through the house, and has succeeded in tabling a large number of amendments.

The new primary election act, drafted to meet the possible emergency which would be created if the Supreme court, in reviewing the case appealed from the Lee county circuit court, found the present primary law unconstitutional, has passed the senate and now goes to the house. Three companion bills, which have to do with the printing of ballots and the filing of petitions, were passed, also.

Representative David McCluggage's home rule bill has passed the house. This bill would permit any city to vote itself out from under control of the Illinois Commerce commission and to set up its own machinery for control and regulation of public utilities.

Another home rule measure to pass the house was that sponsored by Representative Durso, creating a board of transportation to control public utilities in Chicago.

Under the provisions of a bill introduced by Senator Harry Wilson, Pinckneyville, which has passed the senate, policemen of the state are placed under the provisions of the compensation law. In support of the bill Senator Wilson urged that policemen these days are in danger and that the present law makes no provision for compensation.

Superintendent Francis G. Blair of the State Department of Public Instruction, and president of the National Education association, speaking before the National Editorial association at Omaha, appealed to that group to aid the educational association in its program "to insure a square deal for the youth of the nation."

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom in a patriotic address at Rockford criticized state universities for teaching pacifism and said the government should not reduce its defense forces under a program of false economy.

The senate passed Representative T. J. Sullivan's bill authorizing school districts to employ school dentists.

The grade of state hard road No. 3 may be raised above flood stage at Beardstown, if plans now under consideration by the state department of highways are consummated. This portion of the highway has been closed 23 out of the last 51 days.

The house has passed the 2-cent gasoline tax bill, sponsored by Representative A. Otis Arnold, Quincy. The measure has been amended to provide that half of the revenue from the tax shall go back to the county from which it has been collected.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. It was a booklet with the title "This Woman Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

Grind Feed for Money

Own the feed business with this new kind of feed mill. Every community is now, or soon will be, demanding feed ground quickly in large quantities and very fine. Medium grinding, done by many kinds of mills, is no longer in demand.

This is the latest form of feed grinder. It combines the cutting action of the attrition mill with the hammering action of the hammer mill.

This mill will grind 100 lbs. of ear corn, oats, rye, barley, alfalfa, or anything grindable to any fineness, with 25% to 40% less power than any other type of grinder.

This saving in power alone makes these mills money makers all over the country. They will give you a better profit grinding feed than any other business in which you can engage on the same amount of capital. There should be one in every community.

Send for free booklet "THE STORY OF A WONDERFUL FEED MILL," which tells you about this mill and the opportunity of making money in the all-year feed business. Complete equipments in capacities from 2,500 to 25,000 per hour, costing from $750 and up. Many mills pay for themselves in a few months.

NEW PUBLIC SERVICE POWER PRODUCER

When the new 50,000 kilowatt electricity generating unit of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois was put into service recently the total generating capacity of the Company's Waukegan station was increased to 110,000 kilowatts.

the above picture will produce more than 66 times as much electricity as the smaller unit, it is designed to use only about one-fifth as much coal per kilowatt hour in its operation. The new generator is 80 feet long and nearly 29 feet wide.

Although the huge unit shown in Inasmuch as the Company's Waukagan station is interconnected with transmission lines extending to distant points of the Company's territory, customers throughout all of Northern Illinois are given added assurance of an unfailing supply of power and light.

WHY WIDOWS ARE THE SPECIAL PREY OF CONFIDENCE MEN

By W. R. MOREHOUSE

Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

WOMEN are often easy victims for the high-pressure promoter. Widows are especially sought out by the confidence men. Even before their deceased husbands, protectors and counselors are buried the wolves of high finance are waiting outside their doors. They know the defenseless widows will be easy prey. Many a woman today is penniless as a result of making poor investments. "Getting rich quick" for the widow without investment experience is in reality getting poor quick. Once a sharp promoter gets the confidence of a rich widow he has a "Bonanza" as he calls it. Eventually he gets the estate and the widow gets the experience. Widows with estates should be on guard every minute. They are marked persons, with promotion crooks hot on their trail. The best thing that every woman investor can do is to consult her banker before investing.

W. R. MOREHOUSE

Properly cut and set, crystals sparkle in realistic imitation of diamonds. The same is true in the field of finance. There is that which is fraudulent parading as the genuine. Don't buy investments simply because they sparkle. In the realm of wild-cat financing, fictitious credentials, testimonials, and references are employed to give setting and genuine appearance. Some are such rank imitations that they are easily recognized, but others defy detection except on the closest investigation by an expert. The only safe procedure is to investigate under competent advice. Literally millions of dollars are lost to American savers annually as the outcome of buying into something—a fraudulent farm promotion, a business or a job that is nothing more or less than a set-up to catch suckers.

Often the savings of a lifetime are lost by buying unimproved farm lands with the understanding that the seller, or a service company promoted by him, will plant the farm to trees or vines, care for them, market the crop and turn the profits, which, it is promised, will be big, over to the owner. But this dream never comes true. The so-called guaranteed big profits are never realized. If people would only stop long enough to consider all angles of an offer like that before investing they would see the folly of plunging blindly into such a proposition. Let them ask themselves only this one question: "If it is true that such big profits are to be made, why is the seller so eager to part with his property, even to the extent of making it easy for a new owner to farm it?" The answer is that the land is not worth the selling price, nor will the profits derived from it be anywhere near as large as promised.

Buying into the fox business, the poultry business, the dairy business or any kind of business is risky unless you deal with reliable persons or firms whose word is as good as gold. Watch the seller who is insistent in forcing a sale upon you. Look at his proposition from every angle. Just because he makes glowing promises is no assurance that he is not the world's champion exaggerator. Extravagant and exaggerated claims are the earmarks of the fake investment. If you want to go into farming or buy into a business, investigate before you invest. Write to the National Better Business Bureau, New York, or consult your local banker. If they are without information on your proposed investment, wait until they can get the facts and report to you. They have no interest at stake except to forestall crooked games.

LOCATING THE FINANCIAL LEAKS THAT TAKE THE PROFITS OUT OF FARMING

By DAN H. OTIS

Director Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association

INDUSTRIAL lines suffer because of inefficient firms, whose officers cling to old methods and place goods on the market, even at a loss, to compete with the more efficient institutions.

Agriculture, too, has this problem to face. We find farmers who fight new methods. They retard the prosperity of other farmers by throwing on the market poor quality products, frequently produced at a loss.

The nature of the banker's business places him in a position to help this type of farmer as well as the more progressive farmer. At the same time the banker can assure himself of good loans based on the farm as a going concern.

A study of the investments, sources of income and expenses of the successful farmers in his community will give the banker a measuring stick by which to gauge the hazard entailed in furnishing loans to other farmers. This study is readily accomplished through the use of summaries of farm records. In the absence of good records, survey blanks which can be obtained from the agricultural colleges, may be used for collecting the information.

A banker in a dairy district would use data similar to Farmer A's summary in the following table as a measuring stick to judge the condition of Farmer B:

|                                                 | Farmer A | Farmer B |
|-------------------------------------------------|----------|----------|
| Farm receipts .....                             | $5,465  | $2,214  |
| Farm expenses .....                             | 2,122    | 1,978    |
| Receipts above expenses .....                   | $3,343  | $1,135  |
| Interest on total investment @ 5 per cent. .... | 1,070    | 989      |

|                                                            | Farmer A | Farmer B |
|------------------------------------------------------------|----------|----------|
| Net income after deducting interest .....                  | $2,273  | $146    |
| Acres .....                                                | 127      | 130      |
| Total investment .....                                     | $21,400 | $19,773 |
| Operating capital (machinery, live stock, equipment) ..... | 5,862    | 4,473    |
| Number of cows .....                                       | 13       | 11       |
| Investment in cows .....                                   | $2,302  | $1,205  |

The total investment of Farmer A is moderate with a large percentage (27 per cent) of operating or working capital. Farmer B is low in operating capital. The number of cows is also low, which is reflected in the farm receipts, these being $3,251 less than those of Farmer A. The expenses of Farmer B, although about one-half of those of Farmer A, are, nevertheless, high in the ratio to receipts.

The only way to safeguard a loan to Farmer B is to consider assets and not income. Before any loan should be considered at all the banker and the farmer should go over the situation, uncover the leaks and outline a definite program of improvement.

Diversity of Business Good Sign

|                                                         | Farmer A | Farmer B |
|---------------------------------------------------------|----------|----------|
| Income from crops .....                                 | $1,476  | $851    |
| From dairy products .....                               | 2,343    | 752      |
| Sale of livestock (including increased inventory) ..... | 1,656    | 280      |
| Miscellaneous income .....                              | 227      | 181      |

A good diversity of income serves to protect the farmer against years of over-production of any one farm product. Farmer A has a good diversity of income. Notice that the leading source of income, dairy products, constitutes less than one-half of the total income. The various enterprises that make up Farmer B's diversity of business all show marked decreased income.

Quality of Business Shows Leaks

|                                                   | Farmer A | Farmer B |
|---------------------------------------------------|----------|----------|
| Receipts per cow .....                            | $130    | $68     |
| Receipts per livestock unit other than cows ..... | 94       | 32       |

Under the heading, "Quality of Business," Farmer B shows that his cows are bringing in $62 less per year than Farmer A's. The $68 a year which they are producing is undoubtedly below the cost of feed and keep. The income per live-stock unit is still worse, and while this farm needs more cows to increase its volume of business, it would be financial suicide to invest in the same type of cow. This poor farmer must weed out his poor cows and feed the balance properly to get results before money is loaned to him to increase his herd with good stock.

An analysis of the farmer's records will bring out many other leaks which the farmer may not have noticed. He may be paying high prices for feed when less money spent for fertilizers and lime may enable him to raise the right kind of feed on his own farm and stop this drain on his pocket-book.

Barring temporary emergencies, farm loans handled on the basis of income, indicating a going concern, would hasten tremendously the day of a permanent and prosperous agriculture.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD

BY REV. PAUL T. SANDERS, PASTOR OF WORTH COMMUNITY CHURCH

The present age is one of the most fateful in the world's history, because of the fact that one age is passing out, and a new age is struggling to be born. This new period that is fast coming on us is known as the social age.

This new age has made itself felt in our religious thought and in the work of our churches. We used to interpret the Bible and the teachings of Christ in the terms of individual salvation. We tried to save sinner but did not remove the cause of his sin.

To-day we are realizing, that we must not only make new men for the sake of the world, but we must make a new world for the sake of men. To do this we must work in terms of the masses instead of just considering the individual. We must correct the evils of society, in order that men may live together in right relations with themselves and God.

KINGDOM OF GOD

In the past men have lived here on earth with the idea of the kingdom of God being only in heaven. The main thought being to live so as to save themselves from hell, and to gain entrance into God's kingdom after death. The sojourn on earth was merely a period of probation.

The coming of the social age has lead men to read a new meaning into Jesus words, "Repent for the kingdom of God is at hand". They have come to realize that the kingdom of God is here on earth.

This has brought men into a new understanding of life, because God's kingdom is brought closer to them through their social relations with their fellow men.

A SOCIAL GOD

As man's understanding of the Kingdom of God has changed, with the social emphasis, so of necessity has the idea of God changed.

God no longer appears as a far off ruler of the universe who looks down upon men in their sin. He is rather a part of his great kingdom here on earth; moving in the life of his people. He is still a God of holiness and righteousness, and yet finding expression in every life and aiding in the fight against sin and unrighteousness. Men turn to him collectively and live together in a greater bond of brotherhood because of the feeling of God's presence.

MAN IN HIS NEW SOCIAL RELATIONS

This new conception of God and the kingdom is having its effect man in his relations to his fellow men. He is now coming to realize the full value of Christ's teachings.

In times gone by the rights of property, privilege and rank were sacred while the common man was not considered. He has been bargained with individually each man living for himself. This has continued over into our present day when man forms a part of a great productive machine, which is run for profits.

This must change now as men realize the ill and injustice which is derived from such a system.

Men have looked upon these conditions as being unfortunate. They have felt they were doing those who suffered from such a system a great favor, if they aided them individually. This idea is changing as men come to realize it is their duty to change these conditions. Each human being is a part of God's universe and has an equal right to its resources and privileges and also to equal justice in the sight of a righteous God.

The people are coming to realize that the world and the fullness thereof is for the great masses and not the privileged few. The great natural resources, which have been monopolized by a few, who have caused the others to work and starve that they might live in ease and luxury. These conditions are now assuming different proportions in the eyes of men. They are realizing that all should have an equal chance to prosper by God's gifts to mankind.

SOCIAL GOSPEL

This great realization is having a decided effect upon Christianity of to-day. The ideals of Christ are awakening anew in man's lives. The spirit of love and service is not only finding expression in thought but also in action.

Christ's teachings are being realized through men as they never have before as is shown in man's action against war and the social and industrial evils. The spirit of brotherhood between men of various nations and races is now becoming a reality.

One of the greatest factors entering into our livesto-day is that of unselfish service to our fellow men. In his we have the great culmination of the social gospel in bringing the kingdom of God on earth.

Mrs. Wallace B. Combs and Mrs. Wm. Funk, motored to Gary, Ind. recently, having lunch with Mrs. Funk's niece. They returned to Chicago with their car filled with ferns and other plants.

The Royal Neighbors box party and dance which was given recently in the community hall was a social success. There was a large crowd and a wonderful time.

Mrs. Ella Schoeneck entertained the faculty and Principal Miss Lucy L. Laing, of the Perkins Bass School, where Mrs. Schoeneck is an instructor, at dinner. It was a novel affair as dinner was served on the lawn with tables beautifully decorated to carry out the house color scheme which was done in white peonies and daisies. Three car loads motored from Chicago. Miss Laing who is one of Chicago's most prominent school principals was gownned in a stunning sport costume as were also the other guests. Mrs. Schoeneck wore a most becoming and ultra fashionable sport suit to. Following the dinner there was a brief musical program after which Bridge was played, and lovely prizes awarded the winning persons.

This social event was a closing feature of the school year and they all voted Mrs. Schoeneck a most gracious hostess.

BY RICHARD J. BEAMISH

Member Aero Club of Penna. Author of America's Part in the World War.

Acclaimed by the World

Never has there been anything so courageous, so gallant, so dauntless as Captain Charles Lindbergh's facing the hazards of the Atlantic to make the flight from New York to Paris alone. His triumph gave a thrill to the entire world; his magnificent feat had about it the quality that set it apart as a thing unique. It is not often that with one accord we feel like getting up and cheering, but this is one of those too rare occasions. Both the man and what he has done warrant it.

The Largest and the best book ever sold for the money.

An Epic of Success for old and young to Read and to Learn.

This work tells the authentic story of Captain Lindbergh's epochal flight from New York to Paris in all its details. It also tells his true life story; his boyhood and his early manhood; his early trials as an aviator; his service as a United States mail carrier in the air; his narrow escapes; his great reception by the rulers of Europe and by his fellow Americans. It also tells the development of aviation and the epoch-making flights and exploits of the world's greatest airmen, with a history of other famous successful efforts that have been made to bridge the distance between the Old and New Worlds. It is more thrilling than fiction and every word true.

A New Cowboy Epic

CHARLIE SIRINGO

BILLY THE KID

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IN THESE days when the movies and that type of fiction, which reviewers have become accustomed to dismiss with the characterization "another western," have united to give the public a very good idea of what the cowboy WAS NOT, old timers who knew what he WAS have about given up hope of seeing him presented in his true light. They tell you that there have been only a few books which have done that and they will include in that short list Andy Adams' "The Log of a Cowboy," Philip Ashton Rollins' "The Cowboy," and "The Trail Drivers of Texas," a monumental book of sketches, compiled by the Old Time Trail Drivers' association.

Now they can add one more to the list—Charlie Siringo's "Riata and Spurs," recently published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. If Andy Adams' "Log of a Cowboy" is the liad of the cattle trade, as it is generally admitted to be, then Charlie Siringo's "Riata and Spurs" is its Odyssey—truly another cowboy epic. This is not the opinion of this writer acting in the role of a book reviewer, even if it is the composite opinion of some book reviewers—men who are familiar with the cowboy era of the West and who know whereof they speak. But still better evidence than mere opinion is the book itself. The reader who follows Charlie's simple, direct narrative and sees for himself how this old-time cowboy tells of what would be a most thrilling experience to most of us in his casual, matter of fact way, will find himself saying: "Here is real epic stuff." Here is a typical example: In one place he tells of having charge of a herd of 2,500 longhorns, and in the course of that drive he relates that "After leaving these lakes we were two days and nights without water." As one reviewer says, "Having gone through with this unpleasantly arid experience, Charlie Siringo makes no more mention of it than that. To him that was all there was to it. It was a bare, bald, dry fact, a thing done in the discharge of his duty and for $40 a month and prunes, and it was as unromantic to him as a ride in a New York subway is to a suburban straphanger."

The Odyssey of Charlie Siringo began on February 7, 1855 in Matagorda county, Texas. That was the date and place of his birth. When he was only twelve years old he began to punch cattle. In 1868 his widowed mother married again and sold out the family property in Texas to go north and make a home in St. Louis. Then followed a period of wanderings for this "Texas long horn kid" as a farmhand in Illinois, as a bellhop at the famous old Planters' hotel in St. Louis and as a deck hand on a Mississippi river steamboat. Finally he landed in New Orleans, where he was taken into the home of a prosperous merchant who offered to adopt him and give him an education. But Charlie Siringo already had the "wandering foot" and he was not content with the dullness of school life for very long. So he ran away and returned to his farm hand job in Illinois, only to leave that again for another try at life on a Mississippi river steamboat.

He arrived in St. Louis in time to board the Robert E. Lee and to ride on that boat during its historic race with the Natchez. Back in New Orleans again he visited the home of his benefactor and again was taken in and given a chance at schooling. But again he ran away and the spring of 1871 found him back in his native land, the Matagorda country, in time to have a part in the heyday of trailing Texas cattle. He entered the employ of the famous "Shanghai" Pierce and his brother, Jonathan, owners of the Rancho Grande who had literally "cattle on a thousand hills." After working with various equally noted cattle outfits in that state Charlie made his first trip up the old Chisholm Trail in the spring of 1876 with a herd of 2,500 longhorns owned by W. B. Grimes.

After enduring the usual perils of storm, stampede and troubles with the Indians, this herd arrived at the Kansas market and the young Texas cowboy had his first sight of one of the "roaring cattle towns," Wichita, Kan. Charlie records the fact that in Wichita he and other cowboys "whooped 'er up Liza-Jane for a couple of days and nights and found ourselves broke." Incidentally during this whooping 'er up Liza-Jane process Siringo received a buckshot in the calf of his leg and he still carries a scar to remind him of the days when he was a wild young Texas cowboy. On subsequent trips up the trails in Texas, he visited other noted cow towns, Dodge City, Sweetwater, Tascosa, and Mobeetie. One Fourth of July he celebrated in Dodge City and he frankly records that "this celebration came near costing me my life in a free-for-all fight in the Lone Star Dance hall in charge of the noted Bat Masterson."

In fact, a reading of "Riata and Spurs" is like leading through a Who's Who of the old cattle days in the West. There you will see the names of Old Man Goodnight, John Chisum, Beals of the great LX ranch, Outlaw Bill Moore, the manager of that ranch, Sheriff Brown, who robbed the bank in his own town and was thereafter swiftly and sufficiently hanged by his happy citizens, Billy the Kid, Jim East, Pat Garrett, and a dozen others who were connected with the famous Lincoln county cattle war and the saga of that youthful outlaw. If you would know the true story of how Billy the Kid came to his death before the six-shooter of Pat Garrett read Charlie Siringo's "Riata and Spurs." Billy the Kid was not the only famous outlaw with whom Charlie Siringo had contact in one way or another. He can tell you how the equally famous Sam Bass came to the inevitable end of the western outlaw and from personal experience during his later career as a cowboy detective and as an employee of the famous Pinkerton Agency his experience included a part in one of the most celebrated American man-hunts, the chase after Butch Cassidy, Kid Curry and other members of the "Wild Bunch," train robbers par excellence of Montana, Wyoming and Utah.

Siringo's career on the Texas cattle trails ended with the decline of the cattle trade in the eighties. Then for a brief time he was an Oklahoma boomer and there still are many old timers who can tell you tales of the famous characters they saw when they were patrons of Siringo's general store, ice cream and oyster parlor in Caldwell, Kan., where he sold his own special brand of "Oklahoma Boomer" cigars. The next scene in Charlie Siringo's Odyssey was the city of Chicago where he went because as he said "Two years and a half as a successful business man swelled my head so that I thought that I was a natural born financier. Caldwell became too small for a man of my caliber." The big city soon disillusioned him but he had appeared there when the time was ripe for the use of his own peculiar talents in another manner. Soon after his arrival occurred the famous Haymarket Riot and the trial of the anarchists which led directly to his entering the employ of the Pinkertons.

If Charlie's life as a cowboy had been an exciting one his career as a detective was even more so. His duties with this agency took him to every section of the American continent. Some one has said "Wherever crooked trails led, from Texas to Alaska, he followed them skillfully and patiently, usually to bring back with him a man or two who had up till that time outridden the law. Wherever there was trouble, there was Charlie Siringo."

If "I am a part of all that I have met," as Tennyson has it, was true of the Ulysses, or Odysseus of ancient times, it is also true of Charlie Siringo, whose Odyssey is "Riata and Spurs," a new cowboy epic.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 26

Review—Life and Letters of Peter (Read I Peter 5:1-11).

GOLDEN TEXT—Follow me and I will make you fishers of men.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Lessons from Peter's Life.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter in the School of Christ.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Peter as a Leader.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Peter's Life and Work.

At best, suggestions as to the method of review have only a relative value. The individuality of the teacher, the aptitude of the pupils and the department of the school are factors which determine the best method to use. Three methods are suggested, the first two of which are in part taken from "Peloubet's Notes."

I. Peter's Characteristics.
The outstanding characteristics of Peter may be mentioned impetuosity, leadership, courage, cowardice, changeableness, outspokenness. These traits and others are to be found in the quarter's lessons.

II. Biographical.
The features to be stressed in this plan are Peter's early life, discipleship, sad fall, restoration, preaching at Pentecost, imprisonment, writings.

III. The Summary Method.
Lesson for April 3.

Jesus had first called Peter and John to become His disciples. "Afterwards he called them to become fishers of men. He first calls sinners to come to Him for salvation and then calls those who are saved to serve Him in winning others to Christ."

Lesson for April 10.

Following the feeding of the five thousand, some were disposed to compel Christ to be king. Seemingly to prevent the disciples from entanglement in this movement He sent them across the sea. From His place of prayer in the mount He saw them struggling against the storm on Lake Galilee and went to their rescue, speaking words of comfort. At his invitation Peter walked on the water, but when he took his eyes off of the Savior he began to sink.

Lesson for April 17.

To give the disciples a clear conception of His person, to prepare them for the dark hour of the cross, Jesus put to them two questions, "Who do men say I am?" (R. V.) "Who say ye that I am?" (R. V.) One's conception of Christ's person determines his character and his service.

Lesson for April 24.

To revive the crushed hopes of the disciples and to show them how the kingdom was to be realized, Christ was transfigured before them.

Lesson for May 1.

Peter's downfall began when he refused to hear about the cross. The steps in his downfall were self-confidence, sleeping at the post of duty, lack of prayer, zeal without knowledge, following Christ afar off, warming himself at the enemy's fire, and open denial. The look of Jesus brought him to repentance.

Lesson for May 8.

Upon word by Mary that the Lord's tomb was empty, Peter and John hurriedly made an investigation. After Jesus had shown Himself to be alive by many infallible proofs He recommissioned Peter. Resurrection must be beyond a peradventure before there can be missionary effort.

Lesson for May 15.

Fifty days after Christ ascended the Holy Spirit was poured out. When the promise of the Father was sent the disciples were empowered for witnessing of Christ.

Lesson for May 22.

In the power of the Holy Spirit Peter wrought miracles and witnessed for Christ with such power that great numbers were added unto the church.

Lesson for May 29.

After Pentecost Peter, who had covered before a Jewish maid and shamefully denied his Lord, witnessed for Christ in spite of persecution.

Lesson for June 5.

In keeping with Christ's command to witness to the ends of the earth, the missionary program had so widened as to include the Gentiles. Cornelius, a prominent Gentile of good reputation among the Jews, was used of God to break down the middle wall of partition.

Lesson for June 12.

Peter was imprisoned for preaching the gospel. A great crisis was upon the church. The church prayed and God sent an angel to deliver Peter.

Lesson for June 19.

Though Christians are sojourners in the earth they have responsibilities as citizens. They should be obedient to the laws of the country.

It is God's will that I should be serene and strong and brave. He does not mean for me to be despairing or depressed. Day by day He will give me a measure of strength adequate for each emergency. "Dwell deep, my soul, dwell deep!"—Christian Observer.

True faith detaches from the world and sin in proportion as it attaches to Christ.—W. B. Meyer.

Leap-Year Reckoning Quite Simple Matter

The year 1928 is a leap year, as it is divisible by four without remainder. There has been no change in the calendar for the last two centuries. As the exact length of a year, determined by the earth's revolution around the sun, is a little less than 365¼ days, the old Julian calendar, giving a leap year every four years, was inexact. A new calendar, called the Gregorian, was proposed and adopted by most Christian nations in the sixteenth century or later, to rectify this error. This calendar provides for 97 leap years in each 400 years. The only difference from the Julian calendar is that century years, such as 1600, 1700, 1800, 1900, etc., are not leap years unless they are divisible by 400 without remainder. Thus 1600 and 2000 are leap years, while 1700, 1800, and 1900 are not leap years.

Time to Part

Phillips and his wife had always been reputed to be the happiest of married couples, so when Mrs. Jones heard that her friend was suing for divorce she was astonished.

"You say his chief fault is his absent-mindedness?" she asked Mrs. Phillips. "You should try and endure that, dear."

"I did as long as possible," replied the latter. "But when he shook down the player-piano and threw a music roll into the furnace, that was going too far."—Hardware Age.

Bat-Like Airplane Speedy

In an effort to produce an airplane along the lines of a bat, a Parisian inventor has turned out one that resembles a bat. It has large winglike planes, and even the propellers are of fantastic construction. Latest designed Blériot engines supply the power, and vertical fuel tanks surround the narrow cabin from which the pilot steers the craft.

Nothing to Flag Her Down

Ardath, age five, was being taught some of the rudiments of reading by her mother, who explained that coming to a period at the end of a sentence meant for her to stop. A few nights later, at the dinner table, she was chattering away with no noticeable likelihood of there being any pauses, when her mother asked her why in the world she didn't stop talking. She replied: "I guess, mother, I don't see any periods."

Sea Elephant Going Fast

Sea elephants, which at one time abounded in large numbers off the coast of California and Lower California, were in 1912 estimated as numbering only 150 on the island of Gaudalupe. A recent expedition from San Diego to the same island found the herd to consist of 450. The government of Mexico is doing its utmost to preserve this species.

Correct Classification

He—Remember, you were no spring chicken when you married me.

She—Well, I guess not, I was a goose.

Not on Time

He—Is your watch on time?

Flapper—No, you muffin. I paid cash for it—see?

Correct

"What is a detour?"

"The roughest distance between two points."

Tree Preserved in Ice

A Canadian government exploration party recently came across a spruce tree which had been preserved in the ice of the great North American glacier in Alaska. The glacier had receded and left the tree exposed after an imprisonment estimated at hundreds of thousands of years. The spruce was apparently one hundred twenty-four years old when the glacier enveloped it.

A Tip for Anglers

Anglers, especially those who seldom have any luck, may glean a novel tip from the methods of "Old Iguk," medicine man and sovereign of an isolated tribe of Eskimos living on the windswept mud flats between the Yukon and Kuskowin rivers in western Alaska. Every spring just before the salmon run up the rivers to spawn, Iguk goes to the river mouths, where he performs queer incantations and magic rites. He wears a wooden mask resembling a salmon trout and dances and chants, commanding the fish to swim up the streams to his people. For this "mysterious" power Iguk experts over the fishes he visits every Eskimo home and collects one-fourth of all the fish caught as his share.—Pathfinder Magazine.
